

BEYOND THE HORIZON

I endeavour to make my life a success

But instead I reap pain and suffering

Agility is my first priority and fate never rules in my favour

How long shall I carry a heavy burden?

How long shall I be keen to justify guilt for my life is nothing more than a wreck?

But I still rest in a meagre, scanty and feint hope that life will take me places beyond my expectations

For one time I thought my aspirations stood stranded, weary and shattered like broken glass but somewhere deep the horizon whatever situation has been laid before me because

There is a blazing light beyond the horizon I've gained strength and boosted my confidence.

I will go through whatever life takes me

I will face all the challenges absent minded about the situation and adapt to
