

GAVEL AND GIRL GIUDES

A wise lady once said, “The only way to serve ourselves is to serve our country. Let it not be a hobby, but a survival skill.” As the Girl Guides Association, we have taken this wise statement into action.

What are Girl Guides?

It is an International charity club founded by Lord Robert Baden-Powell and his wife, Lady Baden-Powell, in 1857, and it was started in 1910.

Girl Guides’ objective is to serve the country and other people, as the Girl guides promise states. Girl Guides is a club that deals with nature, whereby, if we go for camping, we survive in whatever conditions we’re in, for instance, for cooking, we can use logs and twigs to start a fire. Girl guides also teaches us to:

- Be loyal to other people, hence gaining trust
- Be friendly
- and a sister to all guides
- Be kind to animals and all living things
- Be cheerful in all difficulties
- Be helpful

In fact my fella sisters and I are proud to be recognised as Girl Guides at our very own school. We discovered our identities, and this has given birth to a new sisterhood.
